THE LIBRARY
BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY
PROVO, UTAH

Note for the Reader.

The ninth volume of the Registers of the Diocese of Hereford, now completed, contains the Registers of Cleobury Mortimer and Hopton Wafers.

In the present volume, as has been the rule adopted by the Council throughout, the Registers are not printed in full, but in an abbreviated form which can readily be understood, though every salient fact has been recorded, and all occurrences, remarkable events, etc., have been given in full.

The following abbreviations have been adopted:—

aff.	— affidavit	lic.	— license.
b.	— bachelor (or born).	mar.	— married.
bap.	— baptized.	nup.	— nupti.
chr.	— christened.	p. (or par.)	parish.
ch. w.	— churchwardens.	pr.	— pauper.
cler.	— clericus.	s.	— son.
clk.	— clerk.	sep.	— sepultus.
co.	— county.	sp.	— spinster.
d.	— daughter.	ux.	— uxor.
dioc.	— diocese.	vid.	— vidua.
esq.	— esquire.	w.	— wife.
f.	— filius (or filia).	wid.	— widow.
gen. (or gent).	— gentleman.	widr.	— widower.
inft.	— infant.	wit. (or W.)	— witnesses.

A capital letter after "of" or "p." denotes the parish whose particular Register is dealt with; thus "of C.M." = "of Cleobury Mortimer," and "p. H.W." = "parish of Hopton Wafers."

The Transcripts of an earlier lost Register of Hopton Wafers from the bundles preserved at Hereford, add very much to the value of this volume.

Thanks are due to the incumbents of the parishes for leave to print the Registers, and for facilities afforded in their transcription and collation. Also to Mrs. Baldwyn Childe and the Rev. Prebendary James Payton for transcribing and collating these two Registers respectively.

It might be well to point out that these printed volumes are not legal evidence of any baptism, marriage, or burial; but for entering up a pedigree in the College of Arms, or for any legal purpose, certified extracts must be obtained from the incumbents. The statutory cost of each certified entry is 3s. 7d.

Eight entries are crossed out with this remark : "These names are transcribed into New Register which commences from Jany 1st 1754, 26 of Geor. 2d."

In Register IV. the following memorandum is written, 1793 : "The Parish Church being reported to be in "imminent danger of falling by Mr. Telford the County "Surveyor, who had been desired to view and deliver his "opinion in writing of the state of it, in the spring of this "year 1793, it was in the summer following secured as it "is hoped effectually by strong girders thrown across and "firmly fixed on the wall plattings and abutments of brick "against the south wall to prevent further declination of "it from the perpendicular. The expense was defrayed "by a Church Rate, and amounted to nearly £100, ex-"clusive of what was collected by voluntary contributions "for the purpose of ceiling the Nave of the building : in "which subscriptions Sir Walter Blount, the Revd Mr. "Northey and Mr. James Compson distinguished them-"selves by a handsome donation of 5 guineas each, and "almost every inhabitant of the Parish and Town who "could with propriety be asked for assistance cheerfully "and liberally concurred. In this year 1793 also the new "Bridge at the Yeld was begun to be built at the County "charge, but it was not completely finished till mid 1794." In 1874-5 the church again having fallen into a dilapidated condition was restored partly by subscription (but chiefly by the vicar, Prebendary Baldwyn Childe). Under his careful supervision and the direction of the eminent architect Sir Gilbert Scott, its ancient features were most scrupulously preserved at a cost of about £2000.

Among the knightly names which have borne a part in Shropshire history we find Blount, Corbet, Harley, Lacon, Langley, Turbevill; and among those to whom the word "gent." or "Mr." is attached are :—

Baldwin of the Forge, 1676-1719.
Bradshaw, 1667.
Bradley, 1696-1743.
Colbatch, 1691-1727.
Daunett, 1665.
Fox, 1628-1730.
Field of Mawley, 1652-1701.
Gunter, 1678.
Gower of Rea Side, 1690.
Highmast, 1662.
Heightington, 1683.
Hyde of Hopton, 1650.
Hill, 1689.
Jordan of Rea Side, 1697-1704.
Jones, 1687.
Kettilby of Catherton, 1621-1661.
Lacon, Thomas, 1666-1674.
Lacon, Francis, 1672.
Legast, Sebastian, 1690.
Needham of Catherton, 1671.
Porter, 1675.
Powell, 1670.
Powntney of Catherton, 1697.
Read of Mawley, 1659-1736.
South, 1695.
Walker of Rea Side, 1650-1661.
Weston, 1632-1672.
Wright, 1613.

The following are designated "Minister," but had nothing to do with the Parish Church :—

"Lanes Malden Minister of the Word," 1652.
Francis Pigott and his wife, died 1666.
Richard Hall, 1677.
Edward Boughton, 1695. designated "Artist".

William Lavender, died 1670.
Humphrey Sheffill.

Francis Pigott wrote "An Almanack for the year of our Lord God 1660 calculated for the Meridian and Latitude of Cleobury Mortimer, a Market Town in Shropshire, by Marcus Pigott, mathematician, inhabitant of the said parish". Then follow rules for the making of dials and globes and "profitable directions" for gardeners, ending with this verse:—

Good Lord, preserve our English Common Wealth,
And eke in peace safely keep the same,
And give us grace to work for our soul's health
In glorifying Thy most holy name.

"Sir" Francis Lacon, of whom there will be found several entries, was a pauper christened "Sir," and must not be confounded with Sir Francis Lacon of Kinlet, Kt.

Edward Weaver (pauper), called "Whitesides" because his ancestor won a race from a man of tawny complexion.

William Read, bapt. 1694, son of Mr. Thomas Read of Mawley, was grandfather of the painter Sir Thomas Lawrence. In 1718 he became vicar of Tenbury on "the presentation of his trustee William Bradley" (who was an attorney in Cleobury Mortimer), and married Sarah, the daughter of Andrew Hill, Esq., the builder of Court of Hill, near Tenbury. Their daughter Lucy married 1749 Thomas Lawrence (a runaway match), and the future painter was born twenty years afterwards, the youngest of their sixteen children.

The Lay Deaconry of Cleobury Mortimer.

Of this office the antiquary Blakeway says "a singular piece of preferment of which I know not that any second example can be found in the kingdom". It is endowed with a few acres of detached land in the immediate vicinity of the town, and a small portion of tithe amounting altogether to about £50 a year. Several references to it will be found in the Register, and its present duties consist of supplying the bell ropes and reading the first lesson. I suggest that its endowment represents Roger de Mortimer's grant for the support of the chaplain of the Chantry of St. Nicholas, especially as it is in the gift of the Crown, which now represents the house of Mortimer. This office has been usually but not continually held by the Vicar of Cleobury Mortimer. In 1580 Oliver Matthews, a mercer in Shrewsbury, obtained a lease of it from the Crown for twenty-one years. He was succeeded successively by Cooke, Richard and William Oseland, and Bradley. Since 1793 it has not been held by a layman.

Vicars of Cleobury Mortimer.

The Patrons till 1479 were the Abbots of Wigmore.
to 1551 the grantees of the Prior and Convent of Wigmore.
1572 the Queen.
1587 to 1891 the owners of Kinlet.
the present time Keble College, Oxford.

The Vicars (partly taken from Blakeway's MSS.) :—

1320 John dictus Scheremon of Ludlow.
1348 Richard . . .
1349 Sir William de Curdewall, also chaplain to the Chantry of St. Nicholas.
1362 Roger Mey.
1366 William Hunte.
1371 Alan de la Vise (8th Aug., 1391, John Bp. of Hereford held his third sitting against W. Swinderby in the Church of Cleobury Mortimer).
1399 Sir Hugh Cheyney.
1407 Sir William de Egginton.
1418 Richard Wellinton.
1425 Sir John Sullygrove.
1431 Sir William Whytehere.
1442 Sir John Lowe.

1442 Master William Langwys (had a pension of 5 marks out of the benefice).

1462 John Sandy.

1479 Sir John Tailour, chaplain or deacon of St. Nicholas chantry.

1524 William Bradok.

1551 Edward Troye, appointed by Henry VIII. to the Deaconry of St. Nicholas.

1572 William Taylor.

1587 William Marston, the first vicar who kept the Register. Buried at Cleobury Mortimer 1624.

1625 John Barker, ejected for loyalty. A new presentation by the King in 1633. A gap of eleven years in the Parish Register.

1648 John Malden. Buried at Cleobury Mortimer 1656.

1656 Robert Goodwin. Buried at Cleobury Mortimer, 30th August, 1691. This vicar has left a book of private memoranda, including copies of letters and tithe accounts. He took as pupils the sons of neighbouring gentlemen.

1691 William Edwards, designated "curate" till 1699. Buried in the chancel of Cleobury Mortimer Church, February, 1738, aged 77.

1738 John Attwood. Buried in Cleobury Mortimer Church, July, 1769, aged 60. His son John Attwood was for many years his curate.

1769 Edward Harries, resigned 1779, succeeded to the Cruckton estate, and died 1812.

1779 Edward Northey, Vicar of Kinlet and Cleobury Mortimer, Canon of Windsor. Succeeded to Woodcote family estate, co. Surrey, in 1826 and died 1828.

1800 George Moultrie. Buried in the chancel, Cleobury Mortimer. Died 1845, aged 73. Added considerably to the vicarage. His son (Rector of Rugby) was the author of "My Brother's Grave" (Cleobury Mortimer Church) and other poems.

1845 George William Murray, Vicar of Kinlet and Cleobury Mortimer, Hon. Canon of Worcester; Rector of Handsworth, 1848-1861; Vicar of Bromsgrove, 1861-1882. Died 26th July, 1887.

1846 Edward George Baldwyn Childe, Vicar of Kinlet and Cleobury Mortimer, Prebendary of Hereford. Succeeded his father (Mr. Childe of Kinlet and Kyre) to the Kyre estates, Worcestershire, in 1880, and died at Kyre, February, 1898, aged 79.

1892 George Domvile Chetwynde Wheeler.

1897 Samuel Forbes Frederick Auchmuty.

"Clebury" Mortimer, now spelt Cleobury Mortimer, is a market town on the extreme southern border of Shropshire, half-way between Ludlow and Bridgnorth, and bounded by Neen Savage and Hopton Wafers, with which parishes it is considerably intermixed. It extends eight miles from east to west, and three miles north to south. It comprises 7,671 acres. In 1800 the population was 1,368, in 1897 1,511. This "Town of the Clee" takes its distinctive name from the great family of Mortimer, whose three castles were successively destroyed in the disputes of that warlike race. To the Mortimers we owe (if not the foundation) the beauty of the stately interior of Clebury Mortimer Church, dedicated to St. Mary the Virgin, and which has survived almost uninjured the troublous times of its early patrons and the successive civil wars of the Roses and the Stewarts.

The Church.

The church consists of a nave 76 feet long, with a clerestory and north and south aisles divided from it by five Early English arches, a north chantry dedicated to St. Nicholas, and a large south porch, all of Early English character. The spacious chancel, 41 ft. by 25 ft., is approached through a singularly beautiful Early English chancel arch. The square tower, with its Norman entrance into the church, is the earliest existing feature, and the original stone seats on the east side of the tower in the nave are still there. It is surmounted by an octagonal wooden shingled spire of later date, with very massive internal woodwork.

The chancel and nave have very fine Early English timber roofs, concealed by plaster ceilings in 1793, taken away in the restoration of 1874. A fresco of the Crucifixion was once over the chancel arch, and remains of fresco painting still exist on the south wall. Cleobury Mortimer Church was visited in 1663 by the antiquary Ashmole, who then saw and described the arms of Mortimer in painted glass in the south windows of the nave, in the east window of the chantry the arms of Mortimer quartering de Burgh, Earl of Ulster (Or, a cross gules), and in the north chantry windows the arms of the old baronial family of Trussell. There is modern painted glass to the memory of Edmund Whitcombe, died 1848, in the east window of the chantry, and in the opposite aisle to Sir William Lacon Childe of Kinlet, Kt., the founder of the schools; at the west end in a small lancet window glass to the memory of Captain Trow, who died of fever in the South African war, subscribed for by his friends; and in the three-light east window of the chancel given by Prebendary Baldwyn Childe is painted glass by Powell of Whitefriars, London, to the memory of William Langland, who sang of Jesus Christ in his 14th century poem of "Piers the Plowman".

The principal stone and brass monuments are to the memory of the Vicars—Edwards, 1738; Atwood, 1769; Moultrie, 1845; Childe, 1898; and to the following Head Masters of the Endowed Schools—Brown, 1773; Kemp, 1891. The curfew is still rung from Michaelmas to Lady Day.

There was an old custom at Cleobury Mortimer (unfortunately now discontinued): at the reading of the "Lord's Prayer" in the second lesson of the day the whole congregation rose and continued standing till the end.

In the vestry is the ancient "Lord's Table". It has in all probability been shortened two feet, and there are indications of the consecration marks having been cut out and filled in with small bits of wood. The churchyard cross and the old font were probably mutilated at the same time, the Communion plate lost or melted up, and the Parish Registers neglected—that fatal time when we know that Cromwell's soldiers and the Royalist army were at Clybyry, Tenbury and Burford. There are six bells. "Abel Rudhall cast us all, 1757". The date on the flagon and paten is 1775. There is also a pewter basin. There are two ancient oak chests, one of which is hacked out of the solid tree. The font is modern, 1857, and replaces a small basin. A stone slab with a cross carved on it and a few other carved stones now in the vestry were found built inside the chancel wall when the organ chamber was added in 1874. A stone coffin lies outside the chancel wall. A curious stone carved figure, perhaps intended to represent the Trinity, is built in the churchyard wall.

The Woodhouse.

About two miles to the west is the site of the religious house founded in 1250 by one Tuburville for twelve monks called "The Augustine Fryars of Wodehouse". In 1381 Edmund Mortimer, Earl of March, bequeathed 40 marks to the Wodehouse Fryars. To these Friars in all probability did William Langland (W. of W. as he calls himself, William of Woodhouse?) owe his early training, and many of the old world expressions in his poem of "The Vision of Piers the Plowman" are still easily understood among the unlearned dwellers of the Clee Hill neighbourhood. In 1540 the Commissioners deprived the Friars of their "gilte plate," and in 1559 their Priory was dissolved and granted to Sir Edward Peckham. At the beginning of the 19th century a moated gabled house still existed, and was sketched by Archdeacon Owen. There are no ancient features remaining.

The Schools.

The most important secular buildings in the town are the schools, consisting of a flourishing Agricultural College and elementary schools for boys, girls and infants, founded in 1735 by Sir Lacon William Childe of Kinlet. "Finding that there was no school in the parish nor any schoolmaster," he devised the wherewithal to pay a master to instruct the youth of Cleobury Mortimer in English and writing. The first girls' mistress was appointed in 1818 to teach spinning, knitting and sewing. Such were the small beginnings of the schools, which now rank high among the Shropshire schools, and which have given good education to generations of the population of the parish. The successive masters have been Messrs. Brown, Seale, Sheriffs, Rev. F. Carline, Rev. H. Kemp, Messrs. Wilson, Davis and Green.

The principal house in the parish is Mawley Hall, built by Sir Edward Blount, 4th Bart., in 1736. There still exist: Ditton; The Lea, with initials A. F. (Fox) and date 1665; The Rea Side, with fine 17th century panelling and plaster work; a house with initials W. P. 1675 (Poyner); The Forge, Mawley, built by Sir Walter Blount, his arms cut in stone over the entrance door; and a house opposite the church on which is carved "John Foxall, in the yeare of our crownation 1702".

There are remains of a churchyard cross and the old whipping post.

My acknowledgments are due to the Vicar, the Rev. G. Auchmuty, for much kindness and courtesy in sparing the Parish Registers for transcription, and to Miss Julia Cowan for undertaking the index. I should like to refer my readers to an interesting, learned and exhaustive account of the church in The Churches of South Shropshire, by Rev. D. H. S. Cranage, F.S.A., who says in reference to the church : " The Early English style is not too well represented in South Shropshire, but we have here a beautiful example for study—arches, carvings, mouldings all being excellent ". For a history of the parish I beg to refer to a short account written by me in 1874, and reprinted in the Shropshire Archæological Transactions in 1878.

Hopton Wafers.

Hopton Wafers Registers.

Hopton Wafers is a parish in South Shropshire, three miles from Cleobury Mortimer, and eight miles from Ludlow, situate on the main road from Bewdley to Ludlow. The village, of some sixteen houses, with Church and Schools, is about 500 feet above sea level. The road after leaving this rises gradually to about 1000 feet, where the main bulk of the population is found scattered in isolated dwellings over an open common. Where not agricultural the chief industry is in connection with stone quarries, which supply the well known road metal known as Clee Hill Dhu Stone. The population in 1901 was 461, and is practically stationary. The total area is 1610 acres.

Its situation on the slope of one of the Clee Hills, with extensive views and the beautiful woods of Hopton Court, makes the parish one of the most beautiful in the county, especially during the early freshness of spring foliage and the rich brilliancy of autumn tints.

The name is derived from the Hope (Celtic, valley between hills) in which the village lies, and the ton or enclosure, literally the enclosed space in the hollow of the hills, joined with the name Wafre; one Robert le Wafre having held this manor, also that of Tedstone Wafre and Hampton Wafer, in early times,—hence Wafre's Hopton to distinguish it from the many other Hoptons.

The parish is in the Diocese of Hereford, the Archdeaconry of Ludlow, and Rural Deanery of Stottesdon, which also gives its name to the Hundred.

According to the Book of Winchester, Siward, a freeman, held the manor in Saxon times. This and other manors held by Siward passed to Roger de Lacy, who held under Roger Comes presumably Earl of Hereford.

From Roger de Lacy the manor appears to have passed to Bernard de Newmarch, whose daughter and heiress Sybil married Milo Fitzwalter, created Earl of Hereford in 1143.

Bernard de Newmarch founded Brecknock Priory, and at some date the tithes of Hopton Wafre were transferred to that Priory, as we find in 1236 a confirmation of that grant.

In the Charters of Brecknock occur the signatures of Robert Wafre and le Wafre, 1216—22, so probably Robert le Wafre who gave the name to Hopton was a vassal of the Earl. He or his son [?], another Robert le Wafre, held Hopton in capite of the Earl of Hereford in 1265.

In 1275 Roger de Mortimer, of Chirk, married the daughter and heiress of Sir Robert le Wafre, Knight; he was third son of Roger, Lord Mortimer of Wigmore. There was evidently some change, ecclesiastically, which I cannot trace, as in 1279 the Abbot and Convent of Wigmore present to the benefice. Roger de Mortimer was succeeded by his son Roger, and, according to the "Visitation of Shropshire, 1623," left a daughter and heiress, who married Peter Careswell, who also left a daughter and heiress, who married Gregory Pleyley, and again a daughter and heiress married Giles Hide. In my history of the parish* I have given reasons for considering this pedigree as, at this stage, that of the ownership at passing of the manor from name to name.

* See Shropshire Archæological Society's Transactions, 3rd Series Vol. IX.

The Hides, or Hydes, held the manor till the death of Mary Hyde, who died un-married in 1778 and left it to Mary Edwards, who in turn devised it to her niece Ann Stanton; she in 1799 sold it to Joseph Cotton. In 1812 the manor was purchased by Thomas Botfield, of Hopton Court, the ancient seat of the Hydes which had passed by purchase in 1756 to Joseph Oldham, who sold it in 1779 to John Hale, whose son Curteis Hale sold it to Thomas Botfield in 1798. Thomas Botfield left the manor to his nephew Beriah Botfield, and failing issue in succession to his nephew in marriage Thomas Woodward, whose grandson Robert Stopford Woodward is the present possessor.

The Church, a plain building but of good workmanship, was built by Thomas Botfield in 1825, on the site of the old Church pulled down. The latter, from a picture appears to have been an early English structure, probably dating from the 13th century. There is a Church mentioned in 1236. Mr. Botfield's Church was altered and improved in 1892, when a chancel screen, a hammer beam roof substituted for the plaster ceiling, and other alterations, re-seating, &c., effected a transformation of the interior from the very plain work of Mr. Botfield.

There are three bells, the oldest dated 1671. There is also an Elizabethan silver cup with cover. The succession of Rectors is as follows:—

The Parish Register Abstract of 1831 contains the following account of the Registers:—"Hopton Wafers R. Nos. i.—iii. Bap. Bur. Mar. 1729—1768, 1784—1812."

The Registers begin in 1729, the earlier ones being lost. The present Rector obtained a copy of the transcripts preserved at Hereford of a number of the missing years, and the same are printed in this volume.

The first volume, 1729 to 1784, is a thin book, 12½ by 7½ inches, of 37 leaves, on rough paper. The watermark is Britannia in circle on one leaf and a crown over a diamond, with the figures 10 inside, on the other leaf. It has a leather back, with rough brown boards covered with the index of first lines of "a Complete Naval Song Book." dated 1802, pasted over the boards. It appears to be made from leaves of a larger book sewn through, which makes it difficult at times to read the dates; some cannot be read as appears in the copy now printed. There are no signatures, and both writing and spelling point to the workmanship of clerks of little education.

Vol. II. is a foolscap paper book bound in rough sheep; contains baptisms and burials, 1783—1812.

Vol. III. a similar book, contains marriages from 1784—1812.

These, with the Bishop's transcripts for 1638, and 1660 to 1728, are those printed here. They have been transcribed, and the printed proofs compared with the original Registers and passed through the press by the present Rector. The cost of printing the Register has been most generously borne by Mrs. Seymour, as part of her gift to the Society, in memory of her brother the late Mr. Stanley Leighton, M.P.

There were formerly paper mills at Hopton Wafers, hence probably the names of journeymen papermakers temporarily employed may occur.

It is known that there was some connection with Claverley, where also were paper mills, and possibly a comparison of these registers with those of that parish would show a similarity of names.
